Wendy wanted to play outside. “The wind is blowing and it is cold,” said Mom. “You must dress warmly.”

Wendy put on her warm purple jacket. “Here is your beanie to keep your head warm,” said her mom.

Wendy ran outside. A strong wind blew her beanie right off her head. She tried to catch it, but it flew away.

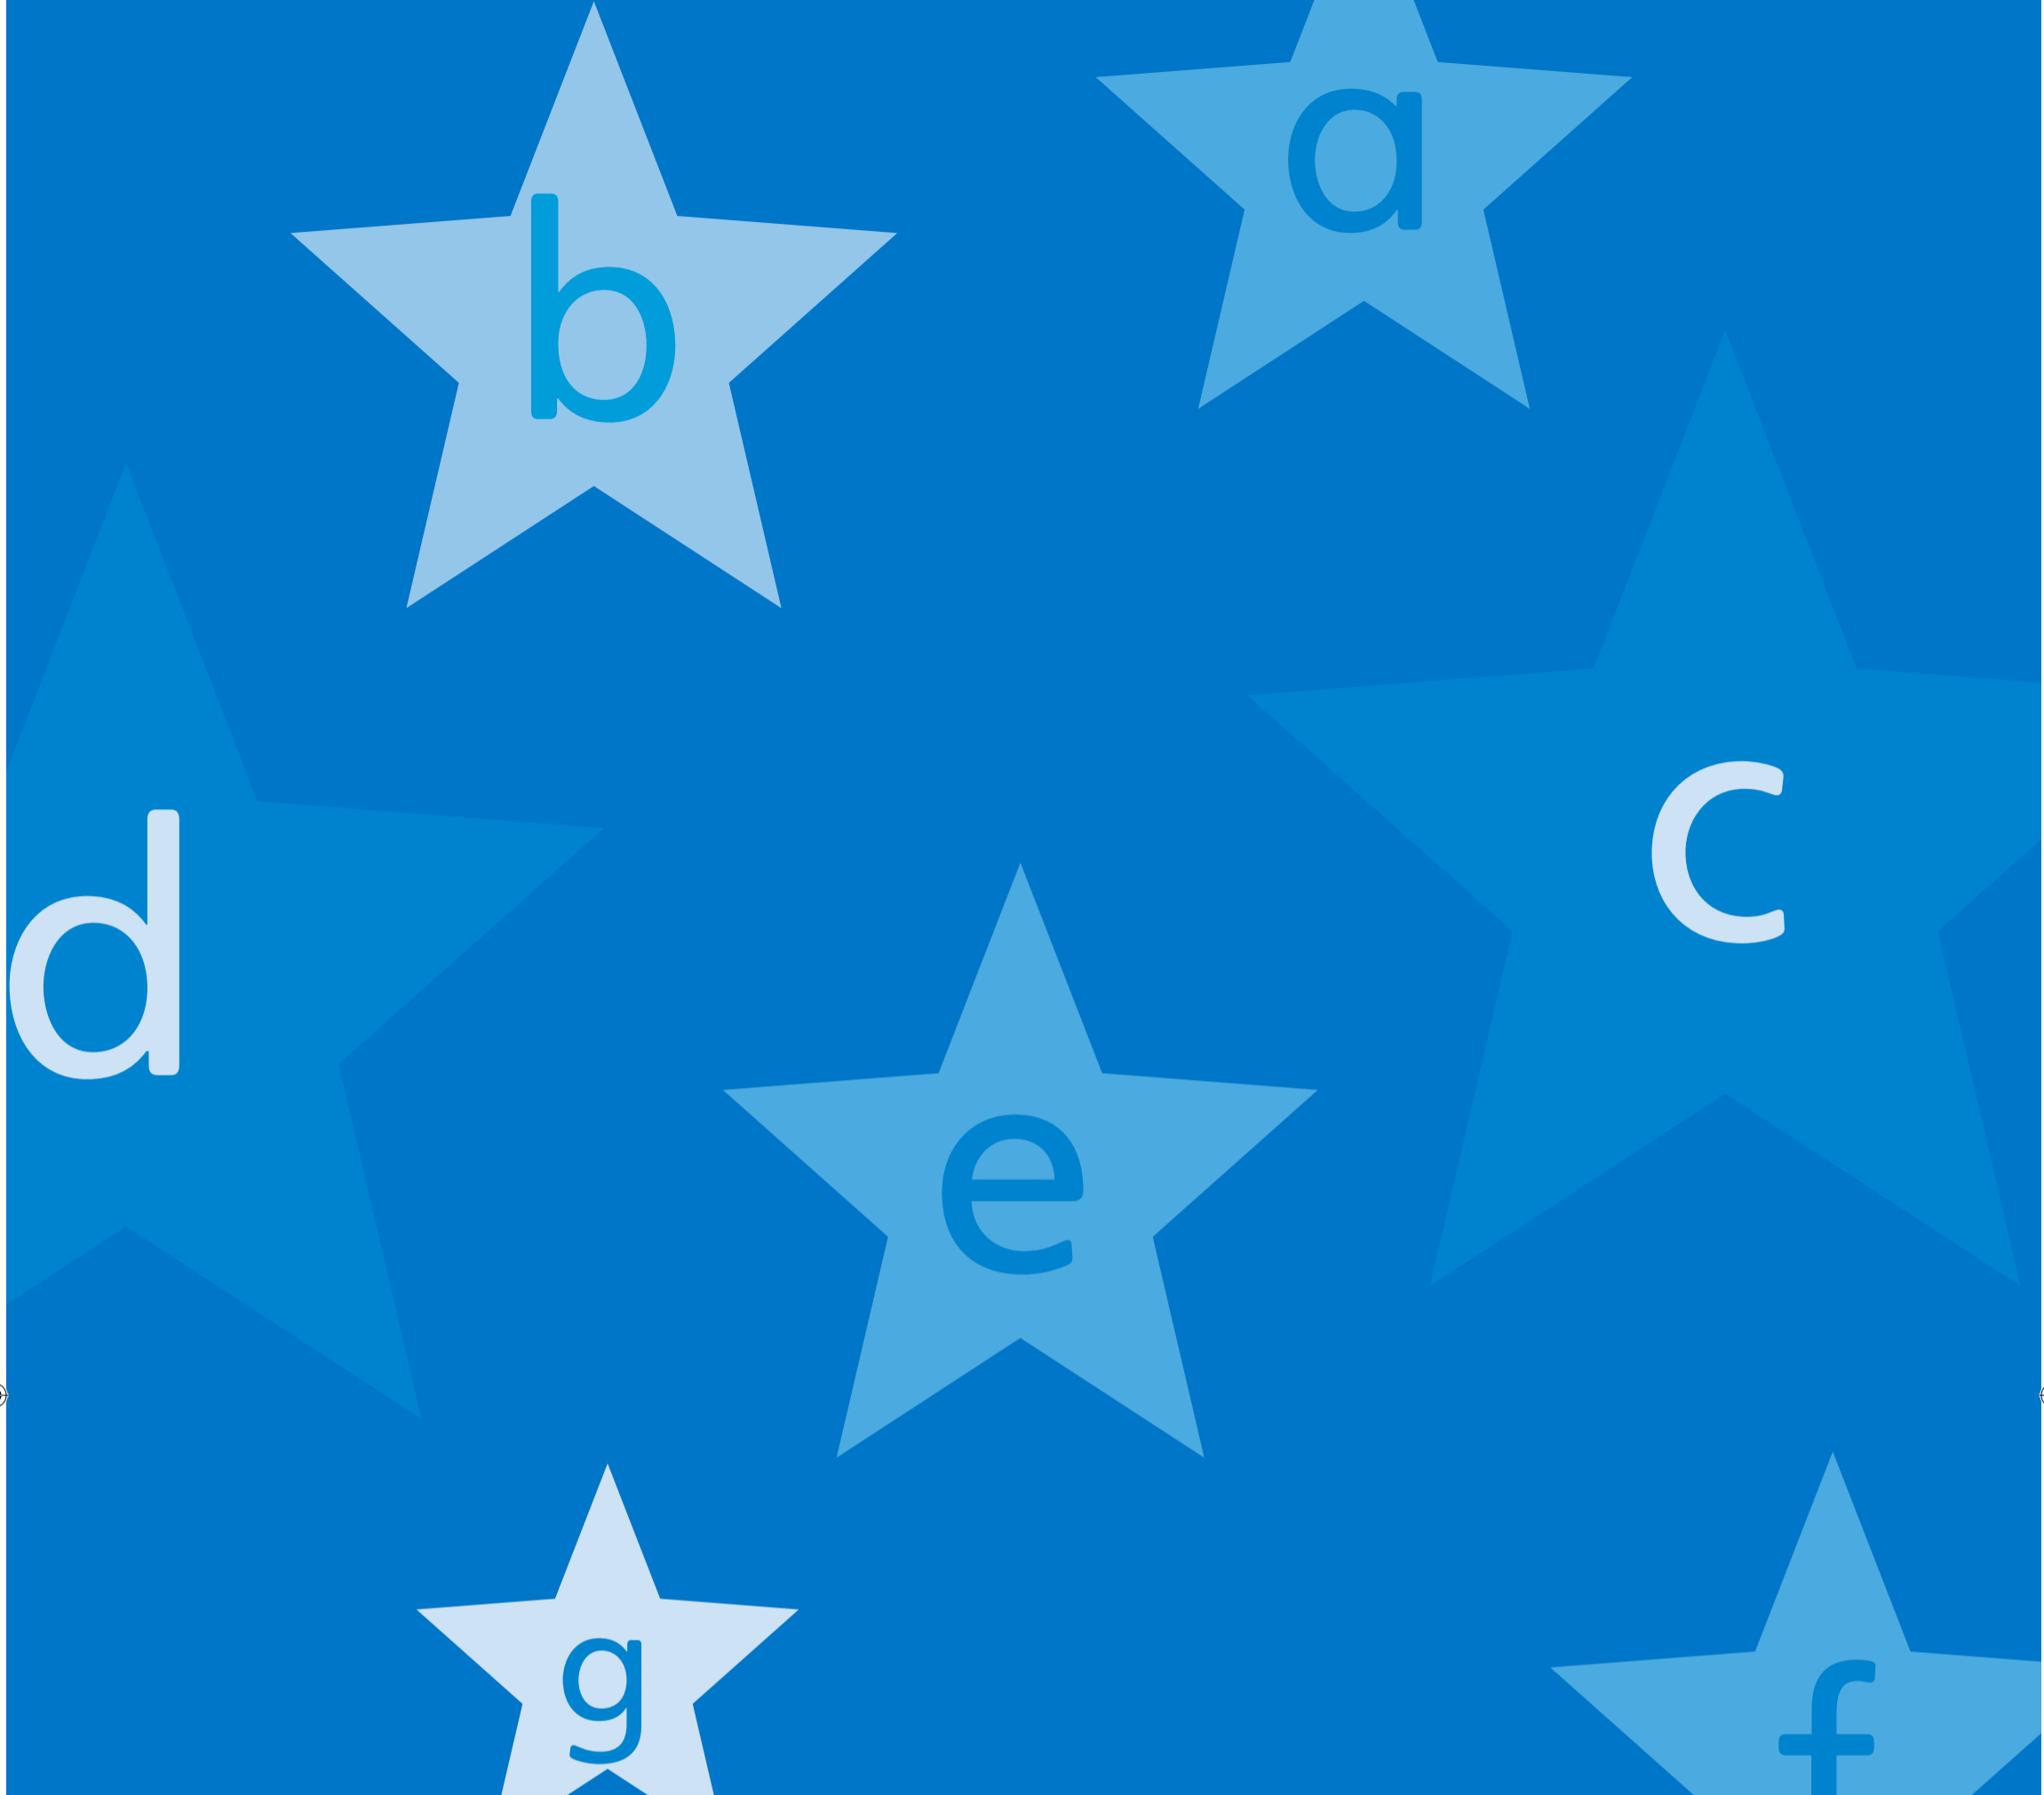

She ran home to tell her mom that her beanie had disappeared. “Don’t worry, Wendy. Maybe someone will find your beanie and use it.”

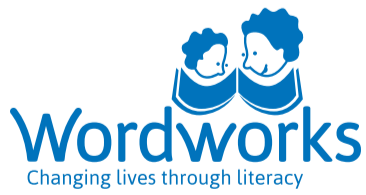

After a few months there were new leaves on the trees and the weather felt warmer. “It is spring!” said Wendy.

Wendy and her mom
were happy to see that a bird had made Wendy's beanie into a warm nest
for her chicks!
